1.2. You are recruited primarily as a co-founder in one of our Start-ups, EPP (Educational Project Program)

1.3. The EPP Start-up company is building a niche-disruptive web and mobile app for personalized graduate study application for African Students. The market is incredibly bubbling as more than 400,000 Africans are currently studying abroad (Link) and expected to double by 2050 (Link).

2. Roles and responsibility

You shall be required to undertake the following duties and responsibilities (but not limited to):

2.1. As a developer, your core responsibility will be to design and develop the full web app experience including landing pages, user flows, frontend/backend functionality, and eventually an installable mobile app or progressive web app (PWA).

2.2. As a co-founder, you will be involved in key decision-making, product strategy, platform launch, branding, and ongoing maintenance and iteration.

3. Compensation

If you fully perform your responsibilities as highlighted above, you will be granted the following:

3.1. Official recognition as a co-founder of the EPP startup, with your name and role reflected across our materials, platforms, and investor decks.

3.2. 20% founding equity in the EPP startup, subject to a 4-year vesting schedule (with a 1-year cliff) and governed by the shareholders' agreement.

3.3. Access to significant long-term financial upside through potential dividends, exits, and value appreciation of equity as the company grows.

3.9. Opportunities to travel for key events, hackathons, pitch days, and global expansion— when aligned with business needs.

4. Governance, Equity Clarifications, Profit & Future Terms

4.1. Equity allocation is based on each co-founder's expected contributions and commitment at the founding stage. Adjustments can be revisited in good faith as the company grows, milestones are hit, and new realities emerge. The remaining equity is reserved for current and future stakeholders, including other co-founders, FutureGRIN Group, team members, advisors, and investors.

4.2. While all co-founders collaborate on major product and strategy decisions, the Chief founder (Ayomide Adediji - who initiated the project and oversees strategic direction and alignment with FutureGRIN Group), retains final authority on executive and directional matters to ensure aligned direction and swift execution.

4.3. A separate internal cap table is maintained and may be shared upon request, ensuring transparency around share distribution and future equity events.

4.4. As with most early-stage ventures, compensation will be equity-based at this stage. Once revenue or investment is secured, fair remuneration (stipends, salaries) will be discussed collaboratively.

4.5. The co-founder agrees that equity may be subject to future dilution in the event of fundraising, issuance of new shares, or other capital events. Every effort will be made to maintain fairness and communicate such changes transparently.

4.6. In alignment with our shared mission, each startup under FutureGRIN Group contributes a portion of equity (10%) and yearly net profits (10%) back to the Group to support shared infrastructure, talent, and ecosystem growth.

4.7. If a co-founder voluntarily exits the startup or becomes inactive for an extended period without agreement from the team, the company may negotiate a buy-back or adjustment of equity to reflect contribution and involvement.

5. Non-disclosure Policy

5.1. Except with prior authorization from the Company, you agree to maintain the confidentiality of all information obtained through this Agreement. This includes, but is not limited to, any information, pitch deck, contract, proposals, research, data, or software provided by one Party to the other in any form, whether oral, written, visual, or electronic. This also includes training materials, financial records, corporate information, stock details, file structures, marketing strategies, business plans, acquisition strategies, ongoing partnerships, operational strategies, investors, finance and client lists. 5.3. No Confidential Information may be copied or reproduced in any form without the Company's explicit prior written consent.

5.4. If you are required by law or court order to disclose any Confidential Information, you must provide the Company with reasonable advance notice and the opportunity to contest or limit such disclosure.

5.5. Even after your relationship with the Company ends, you must avoid disclosing all those in 5.1 of the Company to avoid potential legal action. Disclosure even as a current employee could also lead to a sue.

5.6. If this Agreement is terminated, all non-public or confidential documents (including copies thereof) obtained or created hereunder by any Party shall be returned or destroyed as soon as practicable after the termination of this Agreement and in the case of electronic documents, be deleted permanently from such medium or system where these are stored

6.2. All work, assets, and intellectual property (IP) developed by any co-founder or team member during their time with the startup shall be the sole property of the company. All IP created under this project is owned by the company, to ensure long-term consistency and protect our shared product vision. Co-founders retain public credit and may use nonsensitive contributions in future portfolios or personal growth. Co-founders and team members agree not to use, disclose, or repurpose IP for any external or competing commercial purpose without consent from the company.

6.3. The Parties acknowledge that monetary compensation alone is insufficient to remedy a breach of this clause. As such, the non-breaching Party has the right to pursue equitable remedies, including but not limited to injunctive relief, specific performance, or other appropriate orders, to prevent or address any actual or potential violation of these terms.

7. Damage

7.1. This includes but is not limited to third-party claims arising from negligence, intentional misconduct, or fraudulent actions by the indemnifying Party, as well as any Claims resulting from a breach of this Agreement or an infringement of the other Party's Intellectual Property rights.

8. Conflict of Interest

8.2. During your stay in the company and for a period of four months following your termination, you will not solicit or attempt to entice any employees, clients, or contracted personnel away from the Company.

8.3. You commit to fulfilling the goals of the Project and agree not to enter into any arrangements with third parties that could adversely affect your ability to meet the obligations outlined in this Agreement.

8.4. You are required to promptly disclose any external activities or interests that may create a potential or actual conflict with the Company or its affiliates. You must take all reasonable steps to prevent or address such conflicts in a manner that protects the Company’s interests.

9.3. Given the remote nature of our collaboration, co-founders are encouraged to ensure reliable access to internet, power, and communication tools. Consistency in participation is key to momentum.

9.4. Co-founders are expected to maintain regular communication on their progress, challenges, and milestones—through reports, updates, or agreed channels—to ensure transparency and alignment.

9.5. Each co-founder is expected to take proactive ownership of their role—bringing forward ideas, identifying roadblocks, and suggesting improvements in line with the startup's vision

10.4. The company, determined by the founding team, holds the right to reduce shares, profit and salary in the case of inadequate work ethics and violations as required under roles, responsibilities, and work conditions.
